

READ MORE

18 CEAT students awarded Martin Family Scholarship

Eighteen students from the College of Engineering, Architecture and Technology were awarded the Martin Family Scholarship. The scholarship is awarded to students involved in the Cyclone Cowboys and who have gone above and beyond in the promotion of wind energy in the community and advancement of wind energy research at Oklahoma State University.

READ MORE

Students continue making strides in turbine research through Aerospace Propulsion Outreach Program

The Aerospace Propulsion Outreach Program is an opportunity for senior engineering students to present work on turbine engines. More students are getting involved with turbine research as the MAE program continues to make strides.

READ MORE

CEAT Ph.D. student excels as member of Deb Mishra's research group

Hard work, passion, consistency and a never-give-up attitude have allowed Mahsa Gharizadehvarnosefaderani to pursue her dream of becoming a civil engineering researcher. She is a Ph.D. student and graduate research assistant in CIVE

READ MORE

Zhang's AI for power team won runner-up at American-Made Challenges Competition

OSU's Dr. Ying Zhang, assistant professor in ECE, has led a team of power system and AI researchers to win the runner-up of the American-Made Challenges Competition: Data-Driven Distributed (3D) Solar Visibility Prize.

READ MORE

Could 3D-printed housing help address Oklahoma's affordable housing crisis?

Dr. Tyler Ley and his students are advancing 3D-printed housing research, making affordable, sustainable homes a potential reality in Oklahoma.

READ MORE

New Engineering Technology student lounge opens with ribbon cutting

On November 8, the Division of Engineering Technology hosted a ribbon-cutting ceremony to celebrate the opening of its new student lounge in Engineering North.

READ MORE

CEAT staff members volunteer at Our Daily Bread to help Stillwater community

Eleven CEAT staff members volunteered at Our Daily Bread in Stillwater and served as shopping assistants for people who come to shop for food.

READ MORE

OSU reached United Way of Payne County campaign goal

Oklahoma State University has met and exceeded its portion of the overall goal for the United Way of Payne County's (UWPC's) 2024-2025 campaign. OSU raised $300,000 for United Way

OSU, CEAT community mourn the loss of Dr. Samir Ahmed

The OSU and CEAT community is mourning the passing of Dr. Samir Ahmed, professor of the School of Civil and Environmental Engineering. Dr. Ahmed joined the CIVE faculty in 1981 and served for over four decades of teaching, research, and service. He made many important contributions to the department, the university, and the profession, and educated generations of our students.